With a history of fostering industry-wide change, IHRDC continues to position itself as the leader in agile and intuitive learning management solutions. The critical component of any learning program, including our e-Learning components, is the learning assessment. IHRDC is the leader in creating and using a comprehensive set of competency models and competency systems for all of your staff. Whether you work in educational, government, military or industry, a competency model is the basis of learning, skill development and workforce growth. IHRDC's mission is to create, develop and deliver learning solutions that help our clients be more successful. To accomplish this mission, IHRDC continues to evolve. Athena Microlearning is a web-based search tool that facilitates the discovery of information on IHRDCs many in-depth e-Learning and microlearning resources containing more than 1,500 courses encompassing the oil & gas business and technological advancements in the exploration and production segments. From these resources, the company's e-Learning solutions group compiled more than 6,500 microlearning nuggets consisting of 5-8 minute segments of text, video, animation, interactive, content and knowledge checks and assembled them into a searchable database. The new collection is named Athena Microlearning for the Greek Goddess of Wisdom. The new, extensive database of learning nuggets is derived from IHRDCs many in-depth e-Learning resources containing more than 1,500 courses encompassing the Oil and Gas Business, Upstream Technology, and Operations & Maintenance.
