Using the following: my $query = 'SELECT * from table WHERE id=3'; and I want to get the same output as the following: my $query = 'SELECT * from table WHERE id=3 and another_column=something'; I have tried the following: my $query = 'SELECT * from table WHERE id=3 and another_column=something'; my $result = $dbh->selectall_arrayref($query, { Columns => ['id', 'another_column'] }); but I am not getting the same result. A: The Columns attribute in the DBD::SQLite::Statement's execute method is only used when the query is run by DBD::SQLite, and is not recognized by most DBDs (even DBD::ODBC) -- so it probably won't work for you. You need to use the set_sql_attr_for_col method of DBD:: f988f36e3a
