Vancouver, BC December, 2018 Good morning and welcome to the St James Building Owners and Managers Association (SJBOMA) board of directors. I'm so thankful for the privilege of leading a group of extraordinary people working on behalf of the association and our members. As we're wrapping up the year, I wanted to reflect a little on the wide-ranging, thoughtful, and productive conversations that have shaped SJBOMA's 2019

strategic planning process. I am particularly grateful for the women leaders of SJBOMA who helped to guide this work: lead by example through their diligent service to this community, and through their courage, compassion and tenacity on behalf of women's voices at the table. I am equally grateful for the members of the association, for they have listened to our leadership team's presentation, and submitted candid input on a range of topics. I'd also like to recognize the board members who have stepped up as staff liaisons to provide quality service to our members, who have navigated the often challenging and confusing provincial Bylaw amendments. Our commitment to equity and ensuring that our associations represent all residents was also a key focus of the board. As we transition to a new board with new and seasoned board members, my goal is to communicate the importance of this work to our members and our association, and invite their participation as we prepare for the future. Last but not least, I am thankful for the staff at SJBOMA, who have worked hard to meet our 2019 goals while also keeping
